The New Indian Express

IN BRIEF

NEWDELHI: As India intensifies its drive toward integrated tri-service operations, the Eastern Command is set to host a major joint exercise named 'Poorvi Prachand Prahar' from November 11 to 15 at Mechuka, about 30 km from the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in Arunachal Pradesh.

THE STORY

NEW DELHI: As India intensifies its drive toward integrated tri-service operations, the Eastern Command is set to host a major joint exercise named 'Poorvi Prachand Prahar' from November 11 to 15 at Mechuka, about 30 km from the Line of Actual Control (LAC) in Arunachal Pradesh. The exercise will mark the maiden deployment of newly raised Indian Army formations, the Bhairav Battalion, Ashni Platoon of Infantry, and Divyastra Artillery Batteries, which reflect the ongoing modernisation and reorganisation push within the force. Poorvi Prachand Prahar follows the successful exercise 'Bhala Prahar' (2023) and exercise Poorvi Prahar (2024), which marks yet another milestone in India's tri-service integration efforts. It coincides with exercise 'Trishul' in the Western Sector, scheduled to culminate on November 13, and follows exercise 'Vidyut Vidhans' held in October.

Troops of the Indian Army's Trishakti Corps, headquartered in West Bengal's Sukna, completed a route march with full battle loads across altitudes up to 17,000 feet in Sikkim. The march, conducted over six days and nights through steep gradients, icy winds, and rugged tracks, tested the soldiers' physical stamina, mental resilience, and collective spirit, a Ministry of Defence statement said on Tuesday (September 16, 2025). "Each soldier carried his full operational load — weapons, equipment, and survival gear — replicating battlefield conditions in high-altitude areas. While the Army continues to integrate modern technology, drones, and smart logistics into its operations, such exercises remain indispensable," the statement read.

On social media platform X, a verified Pakistani user shared the viral video claiming that after Manipur, there are reports of massive protests in Nagaland against the Indian Army and the government, alleging that innocent Naga tribes are being targeted and subjected to human rights violations. During this process, we found a similar video posted on Facebook by a user named "Manipur Update" on 13 February 2026. During the incident, several houses were set on fire and multiple vehicles were damaged. DFRAC's fact check clearly establishes that the viral video is being shared with a misleading claim.
